

Join Our NHS England Supported Directory of Designated Prescribing Practitioners (DPPs)

PRIMARY CARE

WORKFORCE & TRAINING HUBS

Are you ready to shape the future of prescribing by mentoring the next wave of independent prescribers (IPs)? We invite you, an experienced prescriber, to become a Designated Prescribing Practitioner (DPP) to guide pharmacists and other trainee IPs pursuing their Independent Prescribing qualification. As a DPP, your mentorship will help IP trainees develop the skills and confidence needed to excel in patient care.

What is a DPP?

A DPP is a prescriber who provides clinical supervision to independent prescribing trainees pursuing their Independent Prescriber qualification.

Benefits of Becoming a DPP

Mentorship Opportunity: Play a crucial role in developing skilled, confident independent prescribers within your local area.

Visibility and Compensation: Our NHS England supported directory of DPPs increases your visibility to IP trainees and opens opportunities for compensation.

Flexible Supervision Models: Utilise multidisciplinary, individual, or group supervision models to effectively mentor trainees.

How to Become a DPP

Join DPP Support: Increase your visibility and connect with aspiring prescribers in need of supervision. Complete your membership registration HERE.

DPP Training: Access comprehensive training through NHS DPP training or HE Cooperative to equip you with the skills and knowledge for effective supervision.

Flexible Schedule: Structure your supervision hours to meet your needs and those of your IP trainee – only a portion of the required 90 hours need to be directly supervised by a DPP. The rest can be with other designated supervisors (non-DPPs).

Join Us Today

Enhance your professional journey by becoming a DPP. Share your expertise, support new prescribers, and contribute to the advancement of pharmacy practice.

Ready to get started?

Sign up for DPP Support and explore the opportunities to make a lasting impact.
